THE BABY TURTLE.

He Has to Paddle His Own Canoe From the Moment of Birth.
Just as soon as a baby turtle emerges from the egg off he scuttles down to the sea. He has no one to teach him, no one to guide him, in his curious little life. There is implanted a streak of caution based upon the fact that until a certain period in his life his armor is soft, and no defense against hungry fish, and he at once seeks shelter in the tropical profusion of the gulf weed, which holds within its branching fronds an astonishing abundance of marine life. Here the young turtle feeds unharmed while his armor undergoes the hardening process.

ABOUT THE STATE

Dale Sleeper of West Burke broke his wrist while practicing on the school trapshooting last week.
H. L. King, an employe in the Rutland Machine shops, dropped a heavy piece of metal on one foot Wednesday, crushing one toe so badly that it was nearly severed.
E. L. Spencer, while at work in the Fairbanks scale factory in St. Johnsbury Monday, had the misfortune to drop 150 pounds of lead onto his left foot, breaking the great toe and badly bruising the whole foot.
James Smith, employe at the Valley Junction Lyndville, narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday. He was crossing a wire cable when the cable broke and he fell about fifteen feet into the river. His ankle was badly sprained.

LINCOLN'S LESSON.

The Way He Learned to Tell When a Thing Is Proved.

Abraham Lincoln was once asked how he acquired his wonderful logical powers and his acuteness in analysis. Lincoln replied: "It was my terrible discouragement which did that for me. When I was a young man I went into an office to study law. I saw that a lawyer's business is largely to prove things. I said to myself, 'Lincoln, when is a thing proved? That was a poser. What constitutes proof? Not evidence; that was not the point. There may be evidence enough, but wherein consists the proof?' I grained over the question and finally said to myself, 'Ah, Lincoln, you can't tell.' Then I thought what use is it for me to be in a law office if I can't tell when a thing is proved? 'So I gave it up and went back home. Soon after I returned to the old log cabin I fell in with a copy of Euclid. I had not the slightest notion of what Euclid was, and I thought I would find out. I therefore began at the beginning, and before long I had gone through the old Euclid's geometry and could demonstrate every proposition in the book. Then in the spring, when I had got through with it, I said to myself one day, 'Ah, do you know when a thing is proved? and I answered, 'Yes, sir, I do. Then you may go back to the law shop, and I went.'"

LUCKY IMITATION.

An Experience With the Russian Autocrat Marshal Gorko.

Marshal Gorko, the famous Russian general, was a terrible autocrat. On one occasion an impertinent celebrated man was performing at a theater in Odessa. One evening he received a mysterious message, which read, "Sturdy General Gorko." In Russia it is better not to inquire into matters that one does not understand, and so the artist spent an hour in privately impersonating the autocratic Russian. Just as the evening performance was about to commence an order of arrest signed by Gorko was presented to the impertinent, and without explanation he was led through the streets to the marshal's palace and into an apartment where the terrible man was seated. "They tell me that you impertinent celebrated men," he roared. "Impertinent me!" Giving a hasty look at Gorko, the performer turned to the mirror to "make up." It was an anxious time, for if the marshal should take exception to the representation he had unlimited power to inflict punishment. The impertinent dragged himself together and turned to the marshal a copy of his own face and overbearing manner. Gorko burst into a roar of laughter, and the dangerous moment was over.

EELS IN JAPAN.

The Restaurant Cook Catches Alive the Fish the Patron Selects.

Entering a Japanese restaurant, a guest who wishes broiled eels and fish is led to a tank of squirming fresh water eels and hidden to point out the object of his preference, says a writer in the Delimitor. The cook, who stands by, selects the wriggling victim of his choice, strikes its head smartly upon a wooden block and squaring it up he grasps the creature's neck, inserts a knife in the left side of the vertebrae and dexterously runs it down to the tail, then rapidly applying his instrument to the other side of the backbone, repeats the process, leaving the eel split open.

LONG-TIME BUSINESS MEN IN STATE.

With the end of the past year, A. S. Crane closed a service of 41 years with E. T. Fairbanks & Co., in St. Johnsbury, which has been continuous with the exception of three years, which he spent in New Hampshire, in the early part of the service. Mr. Crane is a native of Dalton, N. H., and enlisted from Kirby in Co. G, 17th Vermont regiment, serving as drummer during a part of the war. About three months after his return in 1865 he entered the employe of the same company and has been one of the most faithful workmen during all these years, his work being in the beam room, where he has had charge of several men. He gives up his work on account of his somewhat impaired health, which he hopes will improve with the relaxation of labor and responsibility.
